

ABSTRACT

Immunoadhesins active against infectious bacterial agents, e.g., the bacterium responsible for anthrax, are described and claimed. These chimeric molecules feature stabilizing immunoglobulin portions linked to bacterial proteins having affinity for host receptors. Methods of using these immunoadhesins are also described.

10047542-102601